4. Outreach

In planning how to get the message about the impact climate change will (is) having on the citizens of Thomaston it was pointed out that reaching the children is important as they may be the ones to feel to feel it more. Working with the schools, such as Earth Day, was suggested. Having a portable display with an interactive part, perhaps a screen, or real water, that could be controlled to show how the waterfront will look in future years could be used at different locations: town office, library, schools, waterfront events, group meetings, etc.

No other business was brought up.
